SOUTH END BALL GROUNDS.
BOSTON, May 9.—Eugene McCann, the Berry Wall of the Brooklyn team, is slated to serve up to-day a choice collection of the latest style curves and most fashionable drops and benders to the cultured stick wielders who represent this Berg of Beans and Blue Laws on the National League circuit.

McCann, who is entitled at all times to honorable mention for his faultless street attire and the polished ease with which he handles himself when off the field, is also a pretty swell specimen of the genus twirler. His work for the Hanlonites up to date has been high class. He has been the club's winning pitcher this spring.

McCann May Not Last.

McCann, however, has been laid up for repairs for several days with a boil under his left arm. His right is his "salary wing," though, and he says he thinks he can bend 'em over the pan at top speed this afternoon. If he is unable to finish the game Donovan will be sent in to relieve him.

Manager Hanlon is not with the team to-day. He has gone to his home at

RICH BREWER BOILED IN BEER

Troy Millionaire Found Dead in Vat of Hot Liquid.

(Special to The Evening World.)
TROY, N. Y., May 9.—The city was shocked this afternoon when it was announced that Samuel Boltin, Jr., the millionaire brewer, had been found dead in a vat of boiling beer at his brewery.

Mr. Boltin returned from a drive this morning in the best of health and was met with friends in his office for a short time and then went into another part of the brewery. That was the last seen of him alive.

His hat was found beside a vat filled with boiling beer, and this seemed so strange that an investigation was made at once and the body of the brewer was found in the vat.

He had been boiled to death in hot beer.

He was a prominent figure in local politics and head of the big brewing firm of S. Boltin & Sons.

JAS. P. CRUGER'S ROMANTIC TALE

Tells of His Brother, Whose Will Is Being Contested.

In the fight for the fortune left by the late William J. Cruger, the contestants late this afternoon called their star witness, James P. Cruger, youngest brother of the testator.

He swore that he received several letters from his brother's wife asking him to come to Paris for "Willie" had fallen under the influence of a bad woman. She urged him to come also because her husband had failed greatly in health and had only a few months longer to live.

The witness swore that his brother offered him a "handsome sum" if he would bring about a reconciliation.

Later he swore he advised his brother to discontinue the divorce proceedings, and he also advised "Willie" to make a new will, as the Mourielson will leaving Mrs. Cruger would not stand in New York, where a widow is entitled to her dower rights.

He told of the aversion William J. Cruger had for his wife and how her presence irritated him. Nevertheless, he thought there should be no separation, considering the husband's condition.

Mr. Cruger identified numerous letters from his brother and sister-in-law. One letter Mrs. Cruger wrote that she was willing to make any sacrifice to save her husband and restore him to health, even to permitting him a divorce.

"I went to S. V. R. Cruger and obtained money from him to go abroad to my brother," said the witness. "I found him very ill. He had been separated from his wife for seven months."

HIRED A TRAIN TO GET STOCK

Engine and Auto Used to Save a Deal in Northern Pacific.

A special train running at sixty miles an hour was used today to make a delivery of Northern Pacific stock to the New York Stock Exchange. An engine and two cars were used to carry a small packet of the sensational stock from Troy to this city. J. S. Bache & Co. were the brokers who used this method of delivery.

They had a block of the stock in Troy when the market opened and soon found it was absolutely necessary that it be in New York before 2:15 P. M. in order to make a delivery to which they were bound.

The New York Central officials were notified and a train made up at Troy. One of the firm's representatives boarded the train at Troy and the run began at 10:30 A. M. The schedule called for arrival at the Grand Central Depot at 1:45 P. M., but the train pulled in at 1:35 P. M.

A messenger for the firm was awaiting it there, and before the train had come to a stop he had seized the packet and was off for Wall street as fast as an automobile could carry him.

A few minutes past 2 he dashed into the firm's office with the stock, and the delivery was made ten minutes ahead of time.

Starch Works to Close.

There is gloom among the large number of employees of the Glen Cove, L. I., Starch Works over the announcement to-day that the works were likely to be closed soon on account of the corner in cotton. The factory is controlled by the National Starch Company, of which William F. Fitch, Jr., is President.

"Shorts" in Northern Pacific to Be Allowed to Settle on a Reasonable Basis—Thousands of Speculators, However, Ruined by Crash in Prices.

Bank Action Steadied the Market and a Feverish Rally Followed—Worst Panic Seen in Many Years—Money Loaned at 60 Per Cent.

Late this afternoon it was announced in Wall street that a settlement had been reached in the Northern Pacific corner. It was said the Goulds and Harriman had received full assurances that their interests would be protected in the Burlington-Northern Pacific-Great Northern deal.

The stock market closed weak and feverish after the panic it had passed through. A rally followed the forming of a bank syndicate to loan money at 6 per cent., as in the panic of '93.

J. P. Morgan & Co. and other houses announced that they would not enforce the delivery of Northern Pacific stock, thus relieving the strain on the "shorts."

Thousands of persons, however, were ruined in the slump of stocks and they beseeched the brokers' offices. The rally of the market did not help these.

Following is the list of banks in the syndicate. They will loan $19,500,000 at the market price and thereby check the panic.

Hanover National	$5,000,000
J. Pierpont Morgan & Co.	2,000,000
Fourth National	2,000,000
Chase National	1,000,000
National Bank of Commerce	1,000,000
Manhattan Bank	1,000,000
First National Bank	1,000,000
Corn Exchange Bank	1,000,000
Gallatin Bank	1,000,000
Bank of America	800,000
Bank of New York	1,000,000
Mechanics' National Bank	1,000,000
Seaboard Bank	1,000,000
Mercantile Bank	1,000,000
Bank of Republic	1,000,000

Morgan's house alone loaned $25,000,000 at 6 per cent. The ruling rate on the street was 50 per cent., and the last loan was made at 60.

It was this panic rate in money that started the banks into action. Their action undoubtedly saved a number of big firms from ruin.

At the offices of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and J. P. Morgan & Co. it was admitted that practically an agreement had been reached and that arrangements would be made whereby all who are short of N. P. common will be permitted to settle at a reasonably low price, which will be fixed at a conference this evening.

At different times Northern Pacific sold in the market at $1,000 cash and $700 and $300.

The Stock Exchange will be closed on Saturday to enable brokers to arrange their business.

The total sales of stocks to-day were 3,300,800 shares, and of bonds $12,554,000. The total of bonds is a record.

HOW THE PANIC WAS CHECKED.

The panic in Wall street was stemmed shortly after noon by the great banking houses and by the
